Alice Maureen Smith

A traditional monogram for a couple (for a wedding gift) may have either her first initial or his first initial first, their last initial in the middle, then the other's on the right. Traditionally, his first initial should be first on items such as barware, but modern monograms tend to put the bride first.

Just a last initial looks great as well!

Initials have all of the letters the same size - first, middle, last.
